PROVO CITY. NOV. 8 1895

HARRIS GODDARD, the renowned baritone, and Fred Graham, whose sweet tenor is well known and appreciated by Provo's citizens, have been especially engaged for the recital, given by Miss Ruth Eldredge and company at the opera house tonight.

BASU, Bachman is improving in health slowly.

The condition of Judge Smith's health is still very critical.

The business of the Provo woolen mills, which can be safely said to have passed beyond the experimental period, is increasing so rapidly now that the mills can no longer keep up with the demand without putting in additional machinery. John C. Carter stated yesterday that in many lines of goods the sales were a way ahead of the mills and that the sale of Utah-made goods during this year had exceeded that of any previous year. In the line of fine blankets particularly, the stock has been exhausted, and the mills at Provo are working day and night to catch up with the demand. Mr. Carter states that next year the company will go into the manufacture of underwear extensively, and the negotiations are now pending with eastern houses for the necessary machinery. Other departments in the mills are also to be enlarged.—Salt Lake Tribune.

Go to the opera house to night and enjoy a rich treat.

On, yes, and so there is an ahead in the municipal affairs of Provo city according to republican promises. The bosses of the local republican machine are very much because republicans bolted their ticket and elected Marshal Sharp and a democratic councilman in the second ward and also one in the fourth, giving us a majority in the council, and they propose to get even. The hiring in the Enquirer office who writes for the Salt Lake Tribune gives the whole snap away in the following which he wrote and which appears in the last issue of the paper of today's issue: "Provo now has a democratic council-elect and a republican mayor. Present city officials are wondering if their re-appointments will be confirmed, and most of them will probably be re-appointed. If the mayor's appointments are not confirmed, present incumbents will hold over; whichever is convenient to the republicans."

The board of directors of the territorial insane asylum is holding session today.

Prices for the Eldredge recital at the opera house tonight will be 50 cents and 25 cents.

MOCKERIES OF JUSTICE.

Gross Inequalities and Severe Punishments in the Courts of London.

For years Mr. Labouchere has been denouncing in his paper the gross inequalities in the punishments meted out by different judges and magistrates for practically identical offenses, and the daily press constantly emphasizes his denunciations by their reports of cases. Two monstrous mockeries of justice which have occurred within the last week or two appear to have at length moved the lord chancellor to some sort of action. A leading criminal judge sentenced a man to 14 years' penal servitude, while in an adjoining court another man got only three years for crimes that are practically identical.

At Bristol a workless laborer with a starving wife and children altered a parolial relief ticket so that instead of a half day's charity ration he obtained a full day's allowance, which gave a morsel of food to each member of his family. For this terrible crime the poor wretch was sentenced to 12 months' imprisonment at hard labor. These parties are quickened the lord chancellor's interest in the general subject, and now it is announced that he is about to appoint a commission of judges, leading solicitors and barristers engaged in criminal law to investigate and report what alteration in the laws or procedure is desirable.—London Letter.

The Norwegian clerk, Lorenzo, who recently arrived at Pensacola, Fla., had a sample of the strength of a swordfish. Through the metal sheathing of her hull, then through six inches of planking and penetrating the inner ceiling about three inches the fish had driven its snout, or "sword," the result being a leak which kept the crew at the pumps for six hours a day. The sword was about 14 inches in circumference at the point and 6 inches at the base and where it had broken off, the piece being about 36 inches long.

Worthy Your Confidence.

The success of Hood's Sarsaparilla in conquering scrofula in whatever way it may manifest itself is vouched for by thousands who were severely afflicted by this prevalent disease, but who now rejoice over a permanent cure by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Scrofula may appear as a humor, or it may attack the glands of the neck, or break out in dreadful running sores on the body or limbs. Attacking the mucous membrane, it may develop into catarrh or lodging in the lungs lead to consumption. Come as it may, a faithful course of treatment with Hood's Sarsaparilla will overcome it, for working upon the foundation of all diseases, impure blood, the system is clarified and vitalized, and vigor, strength and health restored to the body.

Nothing so distressing as a hacking cough. Nothing so foolish as to suffer from it. Nothing so dangerous if allowed to continue. One Minute Cough Cure gives immediate relief. Smoot Drug Company.

It is a truth in medicine that the smallest dose that performs a cure is the best. De Witt's Little Early Risers are the smallest pills will perform a cure, and are the best. Smoot Drug Company.

LONGFELLOW'S FIRST POETRY.
He Was More Than Thirty When His First Volume Was Published.

Toward the end of 1836 he took up his abode in Cambridge, where he was to reside for the rest of his life—for 48 years. He was made to feel at home in the society of the scholars who clustered about Harvard, then almost the sole center of culture in the country. His work for the college was not so exacting that he had not time for literature. The impulse to write poetry returned, yet the next book he published was the prose "Hyperion," which appeared in 1839, and which, though it has little plot or action, may be called a romance. The youthful and poetic hero, a passionate pilgrim in Europe, was, more or less, a reflection of Longfellow himself.

A few months later in the same year he published his first volume of poetry—"Voices of the Night"—in which he reprinted certain of his earlier verses. Most of them written while he was at Bowdoin. Some of these boyish verses show the influence of Bryant, and others reveal to us that the young poet had not yet looked at life for himself, but still saw it through the stained glass windows of European tradition. The same volume contained also some more recent poems—"The Belated City" and "The Reaper and the Flowers" and the "Psalm of Life"—perhaps the first of his poems to win a swift and abiding popularity. These lyrics testified that Longfellow was beginning to have a style of his own. As Hawthorne wrote to him, "Nothing equal to them was ever written in this world—this western world, I mean."

Certainly no American author has yet written any poem of the kind so good as the best of those in Longfellow's volume of "Ballads," printed two years later. Better than any other American poet Longfellow had mastered the difficulties of the story in song, and he knew how to combine the swift and the picturesque the ballad requires. His ballads have more of the old time magic, more of the early simplicity, than those of any other modern English author. Of his kind there is nothing better in the language than "The Skeleton in Armor," with its splendid lyric swing, and "The Village Blacksmith" and "The Wreck of the Hesperus" are almost as good in their humbler sphere. "Excelsior," in the same volume, voices the noble aspirations of youth and has been taken to heart by thousands of boys and girls.—Professor Brander Matthews in St. Nicholas.

Fair Play For Lady Somerset.

The Boston Transcript says editorially:

It stands to reason that newspapers to whom "Gaiety Girls" are the true and only interesting type of womanhood are finding the amiable Lady Henry Somerset, brilliant as she is, something of an ogre and here. It is a sadening test of the taste and character controlling American journalists today in our cities. Miss Willard says that the current paragraphs about this brave and brilliant English woman's so-called "crusade" in this country are very nearly cruel to a woman who came to this country avowedly to study quietly our customs and politics, and with no intention to instruct a whole country or to attack anything. When the New York reporters flocked about Lady Henry Somerset on her arrival and quizzed her, she spoke of the recent crusades in London against indecencies in low class theaters, and expressed her hearty wish that such evils might be abated on both sides of the sea. At once it was said, and it has been ceaselessly repeated, that Lady Henry came here to organize a crusade, to cultivate a fad, and so forth. She is certainly deeply and practically interested in all that has any relation to highest civilization and freedom of humanity, and she is daily found in good works, now at a convention, now at a meeting at Mrs. Bull's house, and she speaks on suffrage whenever she can be of service to the cause that she and Miss Willard have at heart. Titles are, however, a sort of natural romantic bait to our democracy, and a flower like this ever beat upon a native born reformer like Miss Willard inevitably falls upon the lady who is associated with her. The American press has long ago accepted and honored the exceptional and intellectual ability and rare devotion to public ends of Miss Willard, and it is with pleasure that in her name we ask of it fair play and gentler courtesy for that most interesting and admirable example of the "new woman," in the best sense of that abused term, Lady Henry Somerset.

The twenty-seventh annual convention of the National American Woman Suffrage association will be held at Atlanta in De Giv's Opera House Jan. 31 to Feb. 6. The official call for the convention is:

The object of these conventions is to educate women into a knowledge of their rights and duties as citizens of a republic, and through them to arouse the nation to a sense of the national wrong perpetrated by the disfranchisement of half the people of the United States in opposition to the principles of government declared by our laws and constitutions.

While Colorado's full enfranchisement of women in 1893 is encouraging, the defeat of the suffrage amendments in New York and Kansas in 1894 shows how largely men still fail when called upon to put in practice the principles they enunciate.

Though 26 states have granted some slight concessions to women citizens, in no states of the Union, save Wyoming and Colorado, are women yet admitted to the dignity of equal rights in citizenship. In only six states of the Union are mothers excluded to be legal owners of their own children.

Such being the sad and shameful state of affairs, it behooves all lovers of justice to rally at the call to speed the next step in human progress—the full development of the mother of the race, the greatest factor in the coming civilization.

In Quiberon bay there was a great French fleet under the command of Admiral La Motte-Picquet, and from him Paul Jones obtained what he claimed to be the first foreign salute ever given the American flag. It is true that the governor of one of the Dutch West India islands had got in trouble the year before for saluting the American flag, but La Motte-Picquet's was undoubtedly the first direct and unqualified salute. It was not obtained without some address as well as boldness on Paul Jones part, as the alliance between France and the United States was not then signed, but when the French admiral agreed to salute he did it cheerfully, paying the compliment of having his guns already manned when Paul Jones sailed through the fleet.—Molly Elliot Seawell's "Paul Jones" Century.

Any one conversant with the modern female school and college knows that one of the best equipped and best patronized of their departments is the gymnasium, and that the result is a race of strong, graceful girls, who are as far ahead of their counterparts of a generation ago as the American college athlete of today is ahead of his despondent predecessor of 1860.—Philadelphia Press.

ALIAS.
SUMMONS—IN THE DISTRICT COURT of the First Judicial District of the territory of Utah, County of.

C. A. Sagers and Kate C. Voice plaintiffs, vs. D. C. Sagers and Jane Sagers, defendants.

The people of the territory of Utah are hereby notified that D. C. Sagers and Jane Sagers, defendants, are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiff, in the district court of the First Judicial District of the territory of Utah, and to answer the complaint filed therein, within ten days exclusive of the day of service of this summons on you of this summons—if served within this county; or if served out of this county but in this district, within twenty days; otherwise within forty days—or judgment by default will be taken against you, according to the prayer of this complaint.

The said action is brought to obtain a decree of sale of the premises described in the complaint herein for the sum of $3,250.00, for ten per cent. attorneys fees and for costs of suit. Plaintiff alleges that on August 14, 1895, as Trustee for Kate C. Voice entered into a contract with the defendants whereby he loaned to defendants for a term of five years (5) years of sheep at defendants risk and to pay plaintiff for each year $250.00 and for each successful year the sum of $10.00 per year and at the end of five years to deliver to plaintiff a good healthy young sheep, 15 wethers, and the other half ewes. That to secure the payment of said agreement, the defendants on the 25th day of October, 1895, did execute a certain mortgage for the sum of $2,000.00 and the further sum of $100.00 and $100.00 each succeeding three years, secured by property more fully described in the complaint as follows: Beginning at the northwest corner of the southwest quarter of section 25, Tp. 21, south range 1 west, S. 1, M.; thence east 2.66 chains; thence south 12.5 chains; thence west 2.5 chains; thence north 12.5 chains to the place of beginning. Containing 3.25 acres. Also commencing at the northeast corner of the southwest quarter of section 25, Tp. 21, south range 1 west, S. 1, M.; thence south on main section line 12.5 chains; thence west 2.35 chains; thence north 12.5 chains; thence east 7.35 chains to the place of beginning. Area 9.0 acres. That the usual decree may be made for the sale of the premises according to law and the practice of the court. That said defendants and all persons claiming under them from subsequent to the said mortgage by the said defendants either as purchasers, mortgagees or otherwise may be barred and foreclosed of all rights, claims, or equity of redemption in the said premises and every part thereof; that the plaintiff may have execution and judgment against the said defendants for a deficiency which may remain after applying all the proceeds of the sale of said premises applicable to the satisfaction of said judgment; that the plaintiff or any other party to the suit may become a purchaser at such sale. That the plaintiff cites a deed to the purchaser; that the purchaser be let into possession of the premises on production of the sheriff's deed, and that the plaintiff may have such other and further relief as to the court may seem equitable and just.

For fuller particulars reference is hereby made to a certified copy of complaint hereto attached.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief therein demanded.

Witness the Hon. William H. King, Judge, of the First Judicial District, in and for the territory of Utah, this 9th day of September, in the year of our Lord, one thousand, eight hundred and ninety-five.
